Brazos Valley Food Bank to Receive Trailer Truckload of Kellogg’s Products from Kroger to Feed Children, Families and Seniors During the Summer

18-Wheeler to deliver items on June 1, media invited to cover volunteers unloading truck

Who-What: For many hunger-relief agencies across Texas, including the Brazos Valley Food Bank (BVFB), inventory levels are at the lowest point during the summer although the need is greater. Donations and food drives tend to taper off during the vacation season; however, more families turn to food banks to fill the gap when their children’s free and reduced-price school meal programs close for the summer, which poses an increased need for nutritious products.

Kroger has generously stepped up, with the support of Kellogg’s, to provide BVFB with a truckload of quality food products to help the organization replenish its shelves for the summer. The donation is part of the Kroger’s annual “Bringing Hope to the Table” fundraising campaign, which runs through June 9 in local stores.

The colossal donation will help BVFB feed families in Brazos, Burleson, Grimes, Madison, Robertson and Washington Counties.

Earlier this year, Kroger launched the food bank’s “Because Hunger Can’t Wait” capital campaign with a $100,000 donation to help BVFB expand its current facility and operation to assist more people.
